

The Wave

It's the right hand that has shaken those of the great and exceptional.
The fingers that have touched a million and one hearts.
That which is shown to billions in front or behind the lens.
It is like a subtle jazz hand for you are a star.
It is like a lighthouse for its span overlooks us all.
Young children are quick to notice when playing kings and queens.
Adults think it goes with a flag, some cake and a nice cup of tea.
A tradition that started with Queen Victoria.
A gesture that cannot be eclipsed.
With a left hand full of lilies, the right is always regal.
Thank you for 70 years of the wave.
